LORNE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

It has been patent to us, as well as to the general public, for some time past, that there was not sufficient vitality in this institution, and that its affairs were not being conducted in the manner in which they should be. We gave expression to these views two weeks ago, but refrained from saying all that we felt until after the annual exhibition had been held. We anticipated that it would be anything but a success, and in that we have not been mistaken. The quality of the few articles exhibited was first-class and all that could be desired, but the number of exhibitors and exhibits were scandalously small. It is quite evident that the farming community takes very little interest in the work of the Society, and there must be a reason for such a state of affairs. What, then, is the reason? We hear many farmers complain about matters connected with the management of the Society; they say that when incorporation was sought a list of members was secured nearly all of them being citizens of the town, and very few farmers; that they were not aware of steps being taken to secure incorporation, and had no say in the matter. We do not know about the truth or otherwise of these statements, but have reason to believe that they—especially the first—are not without a large element of truth. We know for a fact that in order to secure the requisite number of incorporators too many of the members were obtained in this town and the farmers were almost totally ignored. We believed at the time that the action of the directors was unwise and would breed discontent, and we do not blame the farming class to feel somewhat hurt. Another complaint is that the society is controlled by the town, and that some of the executive officers are obnoxious. That is a matter which the farmers can easily remedy; let them become members, which they can do so by paying one dollar, and when the election of officers occurs elect their own directors and remove from office any official who may be distasteful to them. The success of the Society and the degree of usefulness which it can accomplish depends altogether on the interest taken in it by the farmer. Such a Society, if properly conducted by a competent directorate, must be a potent factor in the building up of the district. We presume that every settler wishes to see the country prosper and would do all in his power towards that end. If so, it is his duty to become an active member of the Agricultural Society.

As regards the recent exhibition, we said before that it was not a success, and the majority of those who attended it are of a similar opinion. We elsewhere publish a letter from one who was there, and is in every respect qualified to judge of its merits and demerits. The writer of that communication pronounces it a failure, and we fully endorse every word he has written. He might have written a great deal more in the same strain, and still have adhered to the truth. The arrangements were so imperfect that people were pressed into service as judges on the fair ground, and in some instances these judges were totally unqualified for such positions, and as a natural consequence wrong decisions were given and exhibitors went away dissatisfied and disgusted. The most competent judge, we admit, is not always able to decide in such a manner as to satisfy an unsuccessful exhibitor, but there were awards made on this occasion which even an honest winner would admit were grossly incorrect. We will not say anything about the exhibition "hall," which is dealt with by our correspondent. But we will remark that it is not any too early for the directors of the Society to take steps to secure exhibition grounds. This should be done now while land can be had at a reasonable value. All land owners are looking forward to high prices with the advent of the railroad, and one thing is certain the directors need not expect real estate to fall in value. The plea may be that the Society has no funds. Such may be the case, and it still might be possible to secure the land. The Society is a corporate body and could give a mortgage to the vendor who might be quite willing to accept this same, on receipt of a moiety in cash. Some action should be taken, and if the present Board of Directors do not intend to make a move and display a little more energy than they have done in the past, they should step down and out and give place to better men. We regret to have to bestow adverse criticism on the directors and officials referred to and on our annual exhibition, and we sincerely hope that this article may have the effect of stirring up all those whose right and duty it is to take a live interest in the development and prosperity of our district, and of infusing new life and progressive energy into the Lorne Agricultural Society.

LORNE EXHIBITION.

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR,—It appears to be a custom nowadays to report favorably of all agricultural exhibitions whether they deserve it or not. This is held by some to be a patriotic course, though others think honesty a better policy in this as in other affairs. The agricultural capabilities of our district need no adventitious bolstering up and our agricultural society's show ought not to require fictitious reporting. I am sure your report of yesterday's exhibition will be independent and truthful as usual. I am not desirous of forestalling it, but would like a space to make a few remarks, not in a captious spirit, but with a view to the general good.

In a short leader last week you were careful to say you did not allege mismanagement of the Society's affairs—but whether it be called mismanagement or the absence of good management, even a casual observer yesterday could not fail to see there was something wanting; and if he looked long enough he would find almost everything was wanting requisite to insure success. There was a want of system in the arrangements made and a want of spirit and energy in carrying them out. There was no evidence of good judgement and organization anywhere; and there was a decided lack of heartiness and healthy vigor everywhere. There was no want of courtesy however and those charged with the administration of the day's affairs deserve credit for fighting an up-hill battle so good-naturedly. Everything seemed to be in confusion long after the appointed hour for commencing and it was amusing enough to see directors hurrying around trying their best to bring order out of chaos, deprecating criticism by frankly admitting the whole thing was a failure and kidnapping scratch teams of judges literally at the door of the tabernacle. And such a tent! Our excellent M. P. and his good lady were seen peeping through a big hole in the canvas while the judging was in progress and I rather suspect the worthy and good-humored vice-president was chosen for his size to stand at the receipt of customs and thereby conceal a still bigger hole, through which surreptitious views of the interior could be got by impecunious boys.

The whole affair would have been a farce had it not a serious side. I wonder if those responsible for the arrangements gave a single thought to the anxieties and cares of busy housewives deftly preparing those tempting exhibits of butter and cheese which would have done honor to any show in the Dominion? Did they think for a moment of "herry handed sons of labor" groping through cabbage plots and turnip patches selecting those splendid specimens and carefully rubbing up their great potatoes and carrots in preparation for this annual gala-day? Did they picture to themselves toiling farmers, to whose yards the threshing mill had come not, wearily wielding the poverty-stick overnight and driving ten or twenty miles in the early morning that their grain might not be late? And all for what? To have their fine exhibits huddled into a wretched, old, dirty marquee that would have disgraced the show of the veriest travelling mountebank. It would do to say "better could not be done in the circumstances." Better could assuredly have been done if the matter had been properly gone about. Better has been done before and much better will have to be done in the future or the exhibition is doomed. On the whole the produce shown was excellent in quality, but the number of entries was far short of what it might have been in this district. In the judging there were perhaps a few little eccentricities, but it would be ungracious to criticize closely the decisions of gentlemen who were pressed into the service at the last moment and who did their best. It was alleged quite a number of the judges expected did not appear, and this is not to be wondered at having regard to the curt post-card notification which did duty as an invitation and which only wanted "herein fail not at your peril," to be a model for a summons of quite a different kind. The show of cattle was most disappointing in regard to numbers. No one need be told what herds of cattle are raised in the district and how outside purchasers come periodically and buy up surplus stock by hundreds at a time, and yet the whole number of cattle old and young that were turned out for the sixth Annual Exhibition of the Lorne Agricultural Society was a paltry score or two, the good quality of which by no means made up for the miserable paucity of their numbers. I refrain from going into further details as to the exhibition for your space will not allow it. Now, sir, the thought that was uppermost in every man's mind and the expression on every tongue yesterday was "there is something wrong"—What is it? Why are there so few farmers members of the Society? Why have many who were once members dropped off one by one? I observed half a dozen farmers on the ground at the same time yesterday, each of whom could have brought from his own stock a larger exhibit in number than the whole cattle in the yard put together. All these men were formerly members and showed both live stock and produce. Not one of them as a member now and consequently not one of them exhibits a single item. A much larger number were conspicuous by their absence, having long ceased to take so much interest in the Society as even to come to the Exhibition. This is not as it should be. There is bad management somewhere, and the sooner a remedy for the present state of affairs is found, the better will it be for the settlement of Prince Albert. Such a settlement without an Agricultural Society would be strange enough at this period of the nineteenth century. But an Agricultural Society without farming members would be a greater anomaly still and yet such a contingency does not seem so very remote. It is all very well to talk of cranks; I dare say such may be found in and out of all societies; but it would do to stigmatize as cranks all those farmers who have left or who have never joined the Society. Nor will it do to say—"go and start a society of your own if you are not pleased." The Lorne Agricultural Society already occupies the ground and blocks the way to that. Is there anyone who will aver it is acting up to its privileges and responsibilities?

Yours etc. X
Oct. 5th. 1889.

We are pleased to hear that Sergt. J. Bradon has arrived at Qu'Appelle in much better health than when he left here. Through the kindness of Commissioner Herchner, Sergt. Bradon has received a six months' furlough, and intends—after spending a week with his sister in Toronto—to pay a visit to his old home in Ireland for the benefit of his health. John left Prince Albert feeling very grateful for the kindness shown him by his many friends both at the barracks and in the town. We wish him a pleasant journey and safe return.

For several days past the residents of this district have been favored with the most delightful weather conceivable. Knowing ones—of whom there are always plenty at hand—state that it is the forecast of a bitter cold winter, and that we will pay up for it later on. At present, however, it is faultless. The clear, fresh, sunny mornings are followed by afternoons of charming sweetness of temperature—just warm enough to allow of raising the windows and letting in as much of the pure air as necessary. A blue haze borders the horizon, and with the many tinted colors on the leaves of trees in the woods, gives a picture of exceeding great beauty.

EXHIBITION

Prize Winners Sixth Annual Exhibition
Farm Agricultural Society.

We publish below a list of the successful exhibitors in the several departments of the sixth annual exhibition of the Farm Agricultural Society, held here on the 4th inst. The number of entries in some of the classes was chronically small, and in none were there as many as there should have been. There was a very fair exhibit of cattle and sheep as well as of horses, but if more interest were taken in such matters a much better showing could have been made by this district. Some splendid cattle were shown by R.J. Pritchard, Robertson & Sons and the Island Lake ranch, while Peter Fraser, James MacArthur and the Island Lake ranch each had a splendid exhibit of sheep. The stock cup for cattle was won by Robertson & Sons of Carrot River, and the cup for sheep was awarded to the Island Lake ranch. There was a miserably small number of entries in the grain department, but all the samples were of first class quality. W. Plaxton, M.L.A., succeeded in taking the H. B. Co. cup for the best collection of wheat, oats and barley. Mr. Plaxton was the winner of this trophy last year, and we understand that it thus becomes his property. There was a good showing of dairy products, especially butter. Mrs. D. Sullivan won the Macdonald cup, the second time, in this department. The exhibit of roots and other vegetables was very good, perhaps better than could have been expected in a dry season. There was a fair display of articles in the ladies' department, but space will not permit a more extended notice. Altogether we are compelled to confess that this exhibition was in no sense as good as it should and could have been, and did not come up to some that have been held here in past years.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the Council was held on Monday evening last. Mayor Knowles occupied the chair. Present: Couns. Donaldson, Goodfellow, Mair, Davis and Woodman.

The minutes were read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were received from H. Nelson, S. McLeod and T. J. Agnew, re culvert on Church street at Judge McGuire's; from the town solicitor, re matters submitted for his opinion; from the secretary School District No. 3, asking for $560 for school purposes.

ACCOUNTS.

Accounts were received from J. L. Johnson & Co., $24 56; David Williamson, $10; Chester Thompson, $19 25; E. Deacon, $12; St. Ann's Convent, $15.

LICENSES.

Applications for licenses were received from John Wymerskirch, saloon and billiards; Peter Robertson, John Macdonald, James Hourie and A. Hodgson, dray; Peter Robertson, water carrier.

REPORTS.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee recommended payment of the following accounts: T. O. Davis, $84 10; D. C. McLellan & Co., $10 50; T. J. Agnew, $16 50; Adam McBeath, $16 50.

MOTIONS.

Woodman and Donaldson—That the account of St. Ann's Convent be paid. Carried.

Woodman and Davis—That James Hourie and Albert Hodgson be granted dray licenses, and that John Macdonald and Peter Robertson be granted a dray license on payment of the necessary fees; also that Peter Robertson be granted a water carrier license upon payment of license fee. Carried.

Davis and Sanderson—That Russell & Davis be paid $100, being grant by Indian Department towards ferry. Carried.

Davis and Sanderson—That John Wymerskirch be granted saloon and billiard license, on payment of the license fee. Carried.

Davis and Mair—That the sum of $500 be paid the treasurer of School District No. 3. Carried.

Woodman and Davis—That this Council sit as a final Court of Revision on the voters' list on Monday, 18th November, at 7:30 p.m.

Mayor Knowles and Couns. Woodman and Davis were appointed a committee to enquire into the matter of a public cemetery, and report.

The Board of Works Committee was instructed to look into the complaints made by Messrs. Nelson, McLeod and Agnew.

BY LAWS.

A by-law was passed to prevent persons from leading, riding or driving horses or other animals on or across side walks, except at proper crossings.

The Council then adjourned.

CLARK'S CROSSING.

A very serious fire swept the country from Beaver Creek, on the east side of the river on Tuesday doing great damage. Amongst the sufferers are the following: Wm. Clark, Saskatoon, stable and hay; Wm. Skaffe, Saskatoon, stable; F. A. Lamond, Clark's Crossing, stable and out-houses and sixteen tons of hay, twenty hens and four geese; C. A. Lake, Clark's Crossing, stable and eighteen tons of hay; J. F. Clarke, forty tons hay; Caswell Bros., nearly 100 tons hay.

About 100 head of cattle in this neighborhood will be without food unless the owners can make arrangements with their more fortunate neighbors to keep them, and this is scarcely possible as, owing to the scarcity of hay this season, no farmer has more than sufficient for his own use. The outlook is decidedly gloomy.

Rev. Canon Flett, Inspector of Public Schools, made his semi-annual visit to schools of this district on Tuesday and expressed satisfaction with the progress of the pupils in the various branches taught. He returned home via Duck Lake on Wednesday.

As a result of the recent teachers examination held here, Miss Hunter and Messrs. Hamilton and Skaffe obtained teachers certificates in the grades for which they tried. All the candidates were prepared for the examinations by Mr. Leslie, of the Saskatoon school. A fact which speaks well for the teaching qualifications of that gentleman.

What would some of the eastern croakers, who are continually calling this country freeze land, and other such names, say if they were among us enjoying the charming weather of the past week,

DUCK LAKE.

Indian Agent R. S. McKenzie has yearly given the Indians a harvest home. The second annual one came off on the Reserve on Monday last, and was a decided success. After a number of games, races, etc., had been got through with, a splendid dinner was served and speeches were made by Mr. D. H. Macdowall, M.P., Mr. R. S. McKenzie and others. Mr. Macdowall congratulated both Indians and the Indian Agent on the great progress made by them since his last visit, and encouraged them to keep on. Among those present from Prince Albert we noticed Mrs. L. Clarke, Mrs. Dr. Bain, Mrs. F. Norman. Mr. McKenzie has done a great deal to enlighten his Indians.

Last reports from Snake Plain are far from encouraging in Mr. J. Finlayson's health. He is very low. His son Warren has been called home.

Our town was full of M.L.A.'s on Wednesday night. Mr. Mitchell, Capt. Hoy and Mr. Plaxton left by the mail stage on Thursday morning.

Rev. Canon Flett spent part of Sunday in town. He is inspecting the schools in this district.

Surveyors of the Q & L.L. Railway are camped near here. They will work about a month longer between here and Prince Albert. Then they go to Calgary, where they run a line to Edmonton.

Over 300 teams from the railway will be wintered in this district.

Capt. Dougall returned last week from the Peace River country. He reports splendid weather and good times out there, but says it is no farming country. He will take up his residence here.

Our grist mill will commence running the end of next week. It is the intention to do gristing. Mr. Shannon has returned and will take his old position, as engineer.

John McKenzie's little boy, "Jack," is almost recovered from his late attack of inflammation of the lungs.

Already several letters have been received, making enquiries about land near the railway. This place is bound to be the "hub" of the Saskatchewan, and will be the distributing point for the Great Northwest. The Government should open a land office here at once.

Treaty payments were made here on Monday and Tuesday last, and the merchants were after the Indians with big outfits.

Mr. J. S. Coombs of your town had the misfortune to lose one of his horses here this week; he had been working on the Regina and Long Lake Railway when it took sick and was only able to get this far on his return home.

The telegraph office has been very neatly finished off by Mr. Knox and is now the best on the lines.

Lestock Reid and party are surveying near Carlton.

Word has just been brought in that Indian Agent Finlayson is improving.
